The Current State of Assessment Education

The Context
Limited assessment education, potentially misaligned to assessment standards and classroom practices, has been identified as one factor contributing to a lack of assessment competency.

The Purpose
To explore teachers approaches to assessing both developmental and academic learning in kindergarten.

The Results
The results of this study serve to identify points of alignment and misalignment across policies, standards, and curricula.

Full article at cdeluca.com